

India is a country rich in temples, which attracts both locals and tourists. As a result, the temple is extremely crowded, which prevents many devotees from receiving darshan and makes it difficult for the workers to prepare food and Prasad properly. Additionally, because of the crowd there are fights and women don't feel safe. For this reason, we are going to prepare an application that devotees can fill out with their name and preferred time of visitation, and which will recognize the time of all devotees and advise them to come at this time. Because this program has numerous benefits, it will lessen time management and rush in the temple, boost women's safety, make it easier for them to have darshan, and prevent theft. Quarrels will also diminish as a result of this. The trustees will be the ones to handle this application.
